Showdowns Mark Complexions of New Congress Set-Up

President's Policies May Be Forced to Detour as Result of Opposition From Newly Elected Members

Possible Breaks

Showdowns Might Occur Over Hopkins or Legislation or Appropriations

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—The set-up of the new Congress and its committees betokens a session filled with compromises.

At many turns toward expansion and bolstering of his program, President Roosevelt will run into a committee chairman or other influential Senate or House Democrat whose views do not exactly agree with his own.

The power of these men, in the opinion of many returning legislators, has been augmented by the November election returns. The reinforced strength of the Republicans has given a new talking point to Democratic conservatives. Members say it tends to turn the mind of all Democrats, Conservatives and liberals, more sharply toward compromise than toward intra-party fights.

How soon a showdown will come scarcely can be estimated, but it probably will occur before the session is very old. It might easily be over the promotion of Harry Hopkins to secretary of commerce, or over relief policies.

Or the break might come on labor legislation, on the effort to broaden social security program, or on appropriations for numerous projects. When it does come, it appears certain to be a dispute over policy rather than the question of whether it should be done at all.

Until such a dispute does come, is fought out on the floor and the bills are called, none will know to what extent the conservatives advanced in the last elections toward control of Congress.

As it stands, however, the south generally is called conservative. In the Senate, Vice President C. McNamara is a Texan and Democratic leader Barclay A. Kentuckian. The latter has gone down a straight line for White House policies, and was the President's preference for floor leader. But McNamara, advocate of a middle-of-the-road policy, has had his arguments with Mr. Roosevelt, is a potent force, and must always be reckoned with.

In the House, Speaker Bankhead is from Alabama and Democratic leader Rayburn from Texas. They have carried the ball time and again for the administration.

But their background must be understood. Both worked with McNamara in the House for years. Rayburn has long been a close friend and frequent companion of the vice president, was his campaign manager in 1932 when Texas supported him for the presidential nomination.

The south being a one-party section and immune to inter-party election raids, and seniority counting for what it does in Congress, more than half the standing committees of House and Senate are headed by southerners.

Sixteen of the Senate's 33 committees have southern or border-state chairmen. These include one of the most powerful bill-making groups.

Byrd's Demand

Senator Would Have Full Information on Government Lending Agencies

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Senator Byrd (D., Va.), who has opposed many administration policies, said today he would demand that congress obtain full information on activities of government lending corporations.

Describing these corporations as "the invisible part of our government," Byrd told reporters they have independent power to create federal indebtedness totaling $16,000,000,000. About $8,000,000,000 of this authorization already has been utilized, he declared.

Byrd said the agencies, which include the RFC, the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Federal Housing Administration, operate without direct accountability to congress or the budget bureau. He said he had found it virtually impossible to get an accurate check on their operations.

Workers Install New Fire Alarm System

Work is progressing rapidly on the new fire alarm system for the city. The project is under the supervision of Marshall Miller, superintendent of fire alarms in the city, who is on the extreme left; and Michael R. Flick, WPA foreman, second from the right.

A cable sufficiently large to fill the fire department needs for several years has been pulled in the New York Telephone Company's underground ducts from the Strand and Ferry street to Broadway; and the full length of Broadway to Clinton avenue, where it ties in with the business section fire alarm cable laid in 1930.

When the new project is completed, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy will have all the underground cable system for three independent methods of communications between the three paid fire stations: Cornell on Abel street, Wiltwyck on Fair street and the Central station on O'Reilly street. The new system was designed and planned by Marshall Miller.

STREAMLINED SESSIONS: More Than 4,000 Teachers Heads List Given At Syracuse for Conference To Advisory Group

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—Discussions of members of 10 teacher groups, which brought more than 4,000 teachers and administrators to Syracuse for the largest statewide educational conference of the year indicated that public education in New York state is to become more streamlined.

Topics of addresses in the 10 conventions centered on: Educating individuals instead of masses; recognizing the emotions of children as a potent factor in their absorption of learning; giving health and safety education a place as important as any other in the curriculum; teaching children to play as well as to work; educating for wise use of leisure time and lengthening the high school course.

Five state associations began a joint conference yesterday; two others swung into action today; three will convene tomorrow. The five groups' major convention project was to study New York state's new health and physical education program and to devise "ways and means of organizing and maintaining health service, health teaching, physical education, recreation, athletics and safety." These associations are:

Former Helen Gould Names Roxbury Residents, Church in Addition to Her Other Bequests

Finley Helen Shepard, husband of Helen Gould Shepard, of "Lyndhurst," Tarrytown, who died on December 21, is the chief beneficiary under the will, filed today for probate in Surrogate Charles D. Millard's office at White Plains, according to The Associated Press.

Mrs. Shepard, under the terms of the will, will receive an outright bequest of $250,000, his wife's Fifth avenue home and the Shepard Roxbury estate, as well as the residue of the estate after other bequests are taken care of. The three adopted children of the Shepards, Mrs. John R. Burr, of Roxbury, N. Y., Mrs. Helen Shepard Gaines of 430 East 57th street, New York city, and Finley Jay Shepard, of Wallingford, Vt., will each receive the income from individual trust funds of $30,000, set up under the will. The Guaranty Trust Company of New York city is named trustee of the funds.

Other large bequests are made to Agnes N. Stebbins of 347 Adelphi street, Brooklyn, Mrs. Shepard's secretary, $20,000; the Jay Gould Memorial Reformed Church of Roxbury, $20,000, and Louis Henderson Seton, of 63 Stoneridge road, Montclair, N. Two County Men Killed Over Week-End in Motor Accidents

Zero 'Zephyrs' Hit Central West, Are Due Soon in East

Severe Cold Wave Sweeps Out of Pacific Northwest and Might Reach South as Far as Bally Florida

Chicago, Dec. 27 (AP)—The most severe cold wave of the season advanced across the northern half of the nation today.

Temperatures ranging to 10 below zero prevailed from the Pacific northwest to the Great Lakes region as the frigid blasts moved eastward.

Weather observers predicted the full force of the cold wave would reach the Atlantic seaboard tonight or tomorrow and that the bitter weather would stay for several days.

Snow and sleet accompanied the Arctic winds into the midwest and northward. The cold dipped south for Oklahoma and forecasters said it would be felt as far south as Florida.

Sub-zero weather plagued the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana and Wyoming, with lower temperatures in prospect. Snow, rain and stiff winds heralded the approach of the cold wave in the east.

Storm warnings were displayed on Lake Michigan and from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me., on the Atlantic coast.

Highways in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa were clogged with heavy drifting snow. Several hundred motorists were stranded from three to four hours in western Pennsylvania last night by snow and sleet. Icy highways and streets caused scores of automobile accidents in Michigan and Illinois.

A windstorm in western Pennsylvania, and southwest Virginia, uprooted trees, and disrupted power and communication lines. Part of a hospital roof at Latrobe, Pa., was torn away and 76 patients were left in darkness for more than a half hour when power lines snapped. Airlines cancelled passenger flights across the Alleghenies.

Several inches of snow fell in western North Carolina and southwest Virginia. A heavy rain hit New York city while upstate New York received a heavy fall of snow. Many fatal automobile accidents in Ohio were attributed to heavy, wet snow and rain.

A 50-mile north wind scattered a haze of dust in central and northern Oklahoma and shattered windows in Oklahoma City. Two women were injured by falling glass. Temperatures throughout the state dropped below freezing.

The temperature fell 30 degrees overnight in Chicago. A low of 13 above zero was forecast for the city. Polar blasts sent the mercury to 10 above zero in some suburbs.

Temperatures in the Canadian northwest ranged to 22 below zero. At the same time Miami, Fla., was almost sweltering by contrast with a temperature of 78. Fort Pierce, Fla., recorded 82.

Refuses Money

San Francisco, Dec. 27 (AP)—Herschel Grynszpan, Jewish youth awaiting trial in Paris for killing a German embassy attaché, whose death brought an assessment by the Nazi government of $400,000, 000 fine on Germany's Jews, says he wants no contributions towards his defense. He returned a contribution, the amount of which was undisclosed, to Dr. George Herzog, San Francisco physician and war time colonel, with the wish that money be given instead to "the 1,200 innocent Jews robbed and exiled and suffering from cold and hunger on the Polish border."

Employment Service

Restoration of the New York state employment service "to its old standards and proficiency." Provision of facilities for cancer diagnosis and treatment, especially in rural sections.

"Of 21 cities which borrowed for home relief during 1933," the report said, "eight expect to borrow more in 1935, five are borrowing the same amount, three are borrowing slightly less and five are not yet certain how much they will have to borrow."

The committee urged that efficiency of present state social welfare agencies be improved instead of embarking on new projects, excepting those "for which there is pressing need."

Sir James Sexton Dies at 82

'Jimmie' of Liverpool Docks Rose From Poverty To Be Knighted by King George V in 1931; Also Was Member of Parliament

SIR JAMES SEXTON

London, Dec. 27 (AP)—Sir James Sexton, 82, veteran British labor leader, died today at his Liverpool home.

He was once general secretary of the National Union of Dock Laborers and president of the Trades Union Congress.

At the age of 18 he went to sea as a stowaway and was shanghaied in San Francisco. He was a member of the crew that made a perilous journey from Egypt to Britain with the huge "Cleopatra's needle" aboard their ship.

In a weather-beaten gray felt hat, a muffer around his neck like an English laborer and his everyday clothes wrinkled and worn, "Jimmie" Sexton, the Liverpool dock workers' member of parliament, went to Buckingham Palace on February 21, 1931, to be dubbed Sir James Sexton by King George V.

Elwood L. Reynolds, of Port Ewen, Dies at Rhinebeck Hospital After Car Is in Collision With Truck

Clarke 2nd Victim

Town of Ulster Resident Dies at Kingston Hospital; Injured on 9-W

Two Ulster county residents met death Monday as a result of automobile accidents.

Elwood L. Reynolds, 32, of Port Ewen, died at the Northern Dutchess Medical Center at Rhinebeck as a result of injuries which he suffered Christmas eve when he was thrown from a car which was in collision with a motor truck 10 miles north of Rhinebeck and George Clarke, 52, of Neighborhood Road, town of Ulster, was fatally injured Monday afternoon when he apparently walked into the side of a passing car on the Saugerties road, near the site of the old Red House. He died at Kingston Hospital.

The death of Mr. Clarke brings the total deaths in Ulster county from motor vehicle accidents to 25 this year.

Elwood L. Reynolds, former Woodstock resident, died at the Rhinebeck Hospital after an emergency operation performed in an effort to save his life. Christmas eve he and his wife and Kenneth Douglas, a brother-in-law, were met at Rhinecliff by Justice of the Peace Vincent Leon of Columbiaville, where they had expected to spend Christmas. With Lawrence R. Stevens, also of Columbiaville driving, the five were proceeding to the Leon home and had reached a point about 10 miles from the ferry when on a curve the car of Leon, operated by Stevens, was in collision with a milk truck of the Hudson Milk Company, driven by Kenneth Hill of Adams.

Blinding Snowstorm

At the time there was a blinding snowstorm in progress and the driver of the truck said he had failed to see the approaching car. He was arrested on a reckless driving charge and released in $100 bail when taken before Justice of the Peace Frank Jacoby at Red Hook. His hearing will be held on January 4.

When the cars came together Reynolds, who was seated in the middle of the rear seat of the car was thrown from the car by the impact and his body struck a pole along the road, inflicting serious injuries to his abdomen. Mrs. Reynolds was thrown from the car and is said to have landed some 40 feet from the scene of the crash. She suffered bruises, cuts and an injury to her knee, which required seven stitches to close. Later she was taken to her home in Port Ewen.

Stevens, the driver of the car, had two teeth knocked out. After the accident Mr. Reynolds was taken to Rhinebeck Hospital and operated upon. His death Monday was due to shock, abdominal hemorrhage resulting from the severe injuries and to the internal injuries which he suffered. Dr. Howard P. Carpenter, deputy medical examiner of Dutchess county attributed death to the shock and abdominal hemorrhages.

The collision happened about 7:45 o'clock Saturday night during a blinding snowstorm. The cars came together head on according to state police and the north bound sedan in which the five people were riding was completely wrecked.

Hopkins Would Return Millions to Industry

Department of Commerce, According to Reports Would Carry on Drive in Conjunction With Business Advisory Council and Other Organizations—Program Praised

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, it was learned today, is considering a nationwide drive to put millions of unemployed men and women back to work in private industry.

The man who formerly directed the government's vast work relief program has discussed the possibilities of such a campaign with business leaders here and in New York.

The drive, according to reports in both business and government circles, would be carried on by the Commerce Department in conjunction with the Business Advisory Council and probably other business organizations.

Reaching into every city and town, it would be aimed at getting employers to cooperate in giving productive private work to as many as possible of the nation's more than 10,000,000 jobless.

Some well-informed persons said business leaders who had studied the plan professed to see in it considerable merit as a means of directly attacking the unemployment problem.

Program Fairly Definite

Methods for conducting the campaign are said to have been developed into a fairly definite program, so that it could start within a few weeks and be well underway by spring. It thus could take advantage of whatever impetus commerce and industry receive from the usual spring improvement in business conditions.

If Hopkins decides to put the system into operation, he is expected to rely heavily on the business advisory council. This was organized by his predecessor, Daniel C. Roper, to give executives in finance, industry and commerce a voice in federal policies relating to business.

Hopkins has disclosed that he would confer soon with W. Averell Harriman, Union Pacific Railroad chairman, who is head of the advisory group. There was speculation that the two would discuss both the possibilities of a re-employment drive and the general topic of government-business relations.

One of First Subjects

While Hopkins was going ahead with plans for the commerce department, it was becoming increasingly evident that the work relief system would be one of the first subjects of congressional debate.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate campaign expenditures committee disclosed that a report on complaints of "politics in relief" was nearing completion.

The report, which will be a state-by-state account, may touch off Senate debate on relief even before the administration asks for extra funds to operate WPA until July 1. Furthermore, opponents of Hopkins' confirmation believe the report may give them some ammunition.

Senator Tydings (D-Md.), re-nominated over President Roosevelt's opposition, called today for an overhauling of the present relief system. He told reporters this was one of five main issues before Congress. The others, he said, were "reasonable national defense," agriculture, finance, and international relations.

As to relief, Tydings said that for a number of years the problem has been treated as a temporary one "largely by the national government."

"The time has now come," he continued, "for more permanent long-range policies on relief, involving a large measure of local responsibility."

"In the future relief—and all government appropriations—must be formulated more on a pay-as-you-go basis."

Coster Drug Firm Had 25 Customers Only, McCall Says

Assistant Attorney General Suggests Fact About Girard and Co. During Questioning Today

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall indicated today that Girard and Co., the drug concern operated by the late F. Donald Coster-Musica before he got control of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., had only 25 customers.

McCall suggested this while questioning John H. McGloof of Fairfield, Conn., vice-president in charge of accounting for McKesson and Robbins, in the state's investigation of the financial affairs of the corporation.

Federal and New York county authorities also are investigating the corporation's affairs as a result of disclosures that about $18,000,000 in crude drug assets were missing or never existed.

Before he joined the giant drug corporation, McGloof said, he was an accountant with Price, Waterhouse and Co., the firm which handled McKesson and Robbins' auditing. He met Coster-Musica.

Housing Program Heads List Given To Advisory Group

Plan Would Call for Authorization of $200,000,000 in Loans, Annual Subsidies of Million for Two Years

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—A state housing program calling for authorization of $200,000,000 in loans and annual subsidies of $1,000,000 for the next two years headed a list of recommendations advanced today by the legislative advisory committee of the New York county Republican organization.

Other legislative proposals forwarded by the committee to Republican leaders of the legislature for their consideration were:

Enlargement and continuation for one year of the legislative commission to study public health and medical care as well as health insurance.

Abolition of lunacy commissions and turning over the task of deciding sanity of defendants in crimes to psychiatrists.

Establishment of two state camps, one up-state and one near New York city, for the care of vagrants and homeless alcoholics.

(Records of Monroe county penitentiary were cited to show that this type of offender averages more than six years in short sentences at a cost of $1 a day.)

Employment Service

Two New Products May Give Long-Sought Cause of Cancer

Richmond, Va., Dec. 27 (AP)—Two newly found, odd-looking chemical products of the body, which may go far toward explaining the long-sought cause of cancer, were shown to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today.

The pair promise to strip the elusive cause of much mystery and indicate that it is due to "unbalance" of tissue cell activity. Unbalance is one of the original medical explanations, but these chemicals in tests all the way to actual cancer, indicate for the first time more of the things that get out of balance and why.

The discoveries were presented by the Institutum Divi Thomae, of Cincinnati. It is a Catholic research institution, sponsored by the Archdiocese of Cincinnati, established to train young scientists, and concentrating on research for cause and cure of cancer.

The queer new chemicals were shown in two little bottles which the scientists in charge carried in vest pockets. One of these chemicals looked like a pinch of cigarette tobacco, quite dark. The other was pure white crystals.

The dark stuff causes "cell proliferation," which is the medical term to describe the rapid multiplication or growth which not only happens when the body repairs a wound, but is also the main feature of a cancer. This same brown chemical also causes a speeding up in a process known as glycolysis, which is one of the ways that a tissue cell breaks down sugar to feed itself.

This particular kind of glycolysis its speed-up is also one of the "long known features of cancer."

The white crystals speed up "respiration," which is the word for the way a tissue cell uses oxygen. It is a cell's substitute for breathing. Here again cancer comes in, for the malignant growths have a different rate of using oxygen.

Medical experts have reported that the malignant tissues used oxygen more slowly than normal. This, the Cincinnati discoverers indicate, is not true.

The cancers merely seem to use oxygen slower because their cell growth and glycolysis are so much faster.

Therefore the Cincinnati scientists thought that if the oxygen use of a malignant growth could be speeded up to equal the other two "wild growth" features, the cancer might be stopped. This would happen because the "balance" found in normal growth had been restored.

That is exactly what happened, they reported, in a series of preliminary experiments.

The "cigarette" chemical caused tumors in animals. Giving the white crystals to speed up respiration stopped the tumors. Use of the white crystals on transplanted animal cancer caused the growths to disappear.

Curing animal cancers has nothing to do with human malignancy, so that these chemicals cannot be used for human treatment.

Assassination Reporter 94, Dies at Lawrence

Lawrence, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—James Loucheim, 94, who as a youthful reporter for the "Cincinnati Press" covered the assassination of President Lincoln, died yesterday.

Loucheim, known as "the grand old man of Lawrence," was born in Cincinnati February 22, 1845. He served with the Ohio Reserves during the Civil War and later was a newspaperman, contractor and Democratic politician in Ohio and New York.

He had been clerk of this Long Island town for 16 years and was one of the oldest Master Masons in New York state. He was given a gold medal last year for 70 years of Masonic service.

ANALYZED PANIC
The psychology department of Princeton University is going to study the mass hysteria which swept the country some weeks ago during a radio dramatization of H. G. Wells' fantastic story of an invasion of Earth by men from Mars. The university plans to spend $3,000 on the project.
Professor Hadley Cantril, who is in charge of the work, says the department will seek "first, to determine the general extent and nature of the public reaction to the broadcast, and second, to find the social and psychological reasons for it in various types of individuals."

This may seem an unnecessary quest. It was clear at the time that the realism of the presentation fooled some listeners into thinking they were hearing actual news bulletins. They were already in a nervous state of mind because of the recent fear of world war, the New England hurricane and other disasters which had been described by radio. Many people, who perhaps should have known better, heard only a few sentences of the program and rushed out of their homes in terror. Others who did not hear the program at all were panic-stricken with fear when neighbors told them elaborated tales of invasion and poison gas. Wild rumors were spread that were more fantastic than anything in the book or the broadcast.

Even though the explanation is clear to many people, the psychological investigation should be useful, particularly if its findings are made public. It is possible that careful analysis of that panic may help to prevent an outbreak of individual fear and mass hysteria in some future emergency.

SUPER-HIGHWAYS DEFERRED
The Federal Bureau of Public Roads, after lengthy consideration, rejects the proposal to build a great gridiron of super-highways covering the country.

That is just as well. The country is pretty well built up now with good roads, and counties and states are going ahead as they can, to fill the gaps and replace the worn-out strips of paving. Uncle Sam has just about done his share and can afford to ease up for a while; or more accurately, he can't afford to keep on at the recent pace. A spell of comparative federal economy is "indicated," as a doctor would say.

The proposed road system was suggested partly as an emergency employment measure; partly for "national defense" after the manner familiar in some European countries, and partly to promote business and travel. Also, perhaps, on the general principle that Americans just naturally love big construction schemes. The plan was to make it a toll road system, which eventually would pay for itself.

The idea may be sound, but the War Department has no enthusiasm for it, and the public will agree with the federal bureau that it can wait for a while.

FORMULAS AND FACTS
The Pan-American statesmen at Lima seem to have spent nearly all their time—when they weren't making noble speeches, sitting at banquets or observing the cocktail hour—seeking a "formula" for New World cooperation. They have had a terrible time of it. And it isn't any laughing matter, as even a plain, realistic citizen like Alf Landon will doubtless admit as he escapes from all that word-vrestling and face-saving.

Argentina seems to have made it unnecessarily hard. The rest of the hemisphere could have agreed pretty well on a resolution for New World solidarity that would have meant something.

That southernmost sister is, of all Americas, most European. Her citizenship is largely of Italian and German origin; and in spite of her use of the Spanish language, Argentina seems to have almost as much difficulty in getting along with her South American neighbors as with her North Americans—half a world away.

We can understand it, and there need be no hard feelings. But it is unfortunate that the two leading nations of this hemisphere can't understand each other better and get along together, in words and deeds. The smaller American republics need all-round unity for their own protection; and it wouldn't do us Big Brothers any harm.

SKILLED WORKERS WANTED
The Navy Department, making preparations for the anticipated speeding up of the navy building program, found a shortage of skilled workers. It has ordered all navy yard apprentice schools to run at full capacity until further notice.

The proposal to give some of the young men of the CCC special training in airplane design and construction recognized that in an expanded aviation program there would be a lack of skilled mechanics.

It has often been said that if all industry tried to resume operation on a capacity scale at the same time, it would be seriously handicapped by this same shortage of skilled workers. That was true of several industries during the recovery period of 1937.

Here seems to be both a need and an opportunity—a need of apprentice training for boys and an opportunity for the enterprising and skilled to obtain good jobs.

The world is suffering from "pactomania," a disease which impels statesmen to rush through new pacts while they throw the last ones on the scrapheap.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

HEAT VERY HELPFUL IN RHEUMATISM.

When it was discovered about thirty years ago that infected teeth and tonsils caused rheumatism and arthritis, many good teeth and slightly enlarged tonsils were removed, such was the desire to prevent rheumatism and the heart disease which frequently follows rheumatism.

"While a vast amount of good was accomplished it was nevertheless discovered in due course that all cases of rheumatism did not recover when tonsils and teeth were removed."

A little later it was found that bad food habits, defects in personal hygiene, exposure to dampness and cold, poor housing conditions, worry and fatigue could all be factors in causing rheumatism or arthritis, and that these conditions must be corrected or removed as were infected teeth and tonsils, if relief were to be obtained. And to bring the parts back or nearly back to normal takes almost as long as it took the infection or conditions to develop the symptoms.

Among the great helps in arthritis, as in many other ailments, is heat.

Dr. Bernard Langdon Wyatt, Tucson, Arizona, in Medical World, says: "The benefits to arthritic patients of a warm, dry and sunny climate with but slight changes in atmospheric pressure, are beyond question."

"First, heat expands and softens the tissue of the body, while cold tightens them. Arthritides, therefore, suffer less in summer time as a rule."

"In the second place, a warm climate not only makes these patients feel better but also aids in their recovery because it makes possible direct sun bathing."

"Finally, in the case of those arthritides whose arthritis is kept active by throat, sinus, and bronchial infections, the organisms causing these infections disappear, as a rule, within a few weeks in the warm, dry climate."

Now all arthritides cannot leave their homes to live in a dry hot climate, but there is some sunshine everywhere and what is present should be used.

As it is mostly the heat and dryness, not any special rays of the sun, the use of heat in any form is helpful. It should be remembered, however, that the cause of the arthritis should be sought and removed before and during the treatment by heat.

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

by Angela Lorden

The Characters
Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.
Allan Collings, a young man Noel likes.
David Norris, Noel's wealthy suitor.

Yesterday: Allan kisses Noel, but when Elaine summons him to town he goes immediately.

Chapter 11
A Decision Made

"LET'S talk of something else, dear. I had a miserable trip and would rather not think of it again."

Noel, sitting with David at one of the corner tables in an exclusive restaurant, felt an angry flush rising in her cheeks. She was back in New York, with the pleasant days at Clifton behind her and this was her first meeting with David since his return yesterday from Bermuda. He was different, somehow. She had a feeling he was blaming her for all the unpleasantness of his cruise. She felt, too, that he was being deliberately woful about the whole thing.

"Swanstrom expects the revised play script from Dixon on Monday," David said quietly.

Noel looked at him startled.

"I was going to call him this afternoon. How did you know? I should think he would have told me first."

"Well—" David's words came slowly. "I happened to be talking to him and he mentioned it."

That wasn't like Swanstrom, Noel realized. So instead of phoning her producer as soon as she left David she took a taxi to his office.

"I'll expect the world to come tumbling down on my shoulders if Dixon keeps his promise," Swanstrom told her when she arrived.

Noel thought he would offer her the contract then, hinted at such. Even suggesting that if he waited too long, some other producer might sign her.

"I'll take that chance," Swanstrom told her cynically. Both of them knew there was no other vehicle into which she might fit. But his mood changed quickly. He talked of her part, of how much he counted on a long run—of the other members of the cast.

David didn't call her but the next morning a huge box of flowers was delivered early with his neat writing inscribing the penitent message:

"Noel, my dear one, it's because I love you so much."

David, she decided, was over his peevish mood. When the mail was brought up she found a charming note from Mrs. Marchand:

"Allan and I are coming down to New York for New Year's Eve. I'll call you when I arrive," she wrote. Then she added, "I dread it so much, as the time for his going back to South America draws near."

Noel's spirits sank as she read that part of the letter. She, too, hated to think that in two weeks Allan would be going so far away.

There was nothing important on her list of engagements to make the day interesting. Then she made a sudden plan.

Using Her Head

IT SEEMED foolish all the way down to the Pennsylvania Station, but she bought a round-trip ticket to Orson and learned she had only twenty minutes to wait for the train.

Sitting, staring out through the train window, past the towns and fields of New Jersey, she thought about the impulse that had driven her to this journey. She knew more than she cared to admit that another line in Mrs. Marchand's letter had something to do with it.

"Elaine seems to realize she made a mistake in not marrying Allan. I wish they'd decide one way or another. I want my boy to be happy."

Elaine Noel thought bitterly, always had gotten what she wanted. And now obviously she wanted Allan again.

It was nearly three o'clock when she walked through the narrow, rough streets of Orson, familiar yet so different. She stopped in front of one house, smaller and dingier than the rest. Almost expected, for a brief breathless moment, to see a familiar face at the window.

"That's what you came from—that's what you'll go back to if you don't use your head," she whispered vehemently to herself. And knew that using her head didn't mean depending on the whims of playwrights like Dixon, nor the uncertain calls from producers' offices.

A shabby old taxi she went out to the cemetery carrying the white winter flowers she'd bought at the only florist shop she could find. While the driver waited outside the gates, Noel laid the blossoms on two mounds near a weatherbeaten fence. Tears filled her eyes, and flowed down her cheeks as she spoke to herself.

"Mother, darling, can you hear me? You told me to watch out for myself," she sobbed punctuating her spoken thoughts, "and I will! Look what love got you!"

Riding back to the train, Noel's cab passed what she remembered

Santa Stops Christopher's Surprise

"CAW, caw, caw," shouted Christopher Columbus Crow in a big, brave voice as he flew over Puddle Muddle. He stretched his wings and felt well and strong. He cawed again and his voice seemed to reach great distances which pleased him so much that he cawed even louder than ever.

"Caw, caw, caw," he shouted, and then he stopped cawing so suddenly that even he was surprised at his own silence.

"Well," he said to himself, "I never saw anything like that in all my crow life. I mean I never saw anything like them in all my crow life. I mean I never, never, never—" and Christopher could go no further.

A few squeaking sounds answered his remarks, but Christopher Columbus Crow did not hear them.

He was dashing back to Puddle Muddle, and Willy Nilly's house. He tapped on the window pane. Then he hopped over to the door and banged on it for all he was worth.

"Let me in, let me in, caw, caw, let me in. I can't wait to tell you what I've seen."

"What's the matter?" cried Willy Nilly as he opened the door.

"I was having such a lovely nap," growled Rip. "I was dreaming about a world filled with bones."

"You're always thinking about bones," retorted Christopher. But Willy Nilly could not understand Christopher's strange manner.

"Has anything happened?" he asked.

"Nothing has happened—not as yet, anyway," cawed Christopher. "You speak so carelessly," cackled Top Notch.

"So would you—if you had had my surprise," returned Christopher. "I tell you I've had the surprise of my crowish lifetime. I tell you it's amazing—I mean they're amazing."

"Tell us, tell us," urged Willy Nilly. "What was the surprise?"

Tomorrow—Asking Questions?

Spanish Town, Jamaica's Capital, Old Attraction

Capital of Jamaica for over three centuries under both Spanish and English rule, the ancient town of Spanish Town, slumbering in the tropic sun 13 miles west of Kingston, draws within her confines visitors anxious to turn back the pages of history and relive the brave days when from here the minions of Old Castile and their British conquerors governed the island.

While there are very few old Spanish buildings remaining anywhere in Jamaica, the Great square of Spanish Town is authentically Spanish. It was laid out after the Plan of Spanish cities when the Dons decided to leave Seville on the North coast and establish their seat of government inland. This is believed to have been in 1538.

Spanish Town was evacuated in 1855 in the face of the British under Admiral Penn and General Venables, but remained the capital until 1872.

The ancient government buildings are among Spanish Town's chief points of interest. The old House of Assembly and King's house date from 1762. The former in particular gives direct contact with the days of the Eighteenth century. In bygone years tradition has it that there was an underground passage leading from the old cathedral across the square to the assembly building, which was used in troublous times by the law-makers as a quick means of getting into and out of the chambers where the assembly sessions were being held.

Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Don't be thunderstruck if the humble merchant you are sending to Congress to represent your district suddenly blossoms out as a scholar on the constitution or a speaker of unprecedented eloquence. Generations of previous congressmen have planned it that way.

Joe Gloofus of South Butteborough may have spent all his spare time playing golf and reading the Groceryman's Digest but in Washington his fund of knowledge suddenly expands to the limits of the universe.

Soon after his arrival Representative Gloofus is advised of a congressional reference section in the Congressional Library specifically designed to help him dumbfound his home town neighbors. A bit apologetically he writes a note to the librarian suggesting that if somebody could dig up a few facts about cooling moth control the apple growers in his section would appreciate it. Within a very few days there will arrive on his desk a neatly typewritten digest of methods of cooling moth control, what Congress has done about it and amounts appropriated.

May Add 'Local Color'
JOE may insert a few knowing remarks on what he will ask the government to do about cooling moths, and then shove the whole thing into the Congressional Record where it will be labeled as a speech made by him in the House. Actually no part of it ever is spoken in the House. But when it is thus printed he can have extra copies made and sent without cost to a large number of his constituents.

For more earnest congressmen who like to do their own research, the library will send over a stack of books and pamphlets. But a lot of congressional energy is wasted

Plenty Of Help
WHOLE floors of the library are staffed with research men and magpies, newspapermen and governmental reports are combed for clippings on every legislative subject.

There is a serious purpose behind it all, of course. Gloofus will find on his arrival in Washington that he is expected to vote yes or no on subjects the like of which he never before heard. And it probably is no public waste if he can push a button and get himself at least a smattering of knowledge on a few topics of life-and-death importance to the country or his congressional district.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 72—Air Line

Today we delve into the archives of Mr. Murdock's steamboat collection to learn of the history of a ferryboat which ceased operating between Saugerties and Tivoli just 23 years ago. Many of our readers will well remember this vessel as she was somewhat of a curiosity as far as her type was concerned.

The "Air Line" was a wooden hull vessel built at Philadelphia in 1857. She was 73 feet long, breadth of beam 20 feet, depth of hold six feet five inches, gross tonnage 71, net tonnage 52, and she was powered with a vertical beam engine.

Originally this odd ferryboat was constructed for the Air Line Railroad Company of Pennsylvania and was one of the first of the walking beam type ferryboats ever constructed in this country.

Her great bar walking beam coupled with the fact that she had only one bow instead of the customary two which are the rule for ferryboats, labeled the "Air Line" as a distinct curiosity.

The "Air Line" also holds a doubtful record of having made the trip from Philadelphia to Sandy Hook via the Atlantic Ocean; her owner refusing to pay toll charges to the New Jersey canals.

A photograph in the Murdock collection shows the "Air Line" with her one bow, long narrow cabins on each side with open air alleyways separated by the engine house down the center of the vessel. An octagon-shaped pilot house stands atop the engine house with the great bar walking beam directly behind and a high smokestack rising from the middle of the steamboat. Lifeboats were mounted on the roofs of the side cabins.

John N. Snyder operated the "Air Line" when she plied the waters of the Hudson river between Saugerties and Tivoli, and because of her single bow, the vessel had to be turned completely after each crossing. For this reason the fare on the "Air Line" was the largest charged on any ferryboat on the Hudson river—a situation which would make a New Jersey commuter rise up in wrath if he had to pay the 25 cents each time he crossed the river.

The "Air Line" served the public between the two upriver towns for almost 58 years, continuing in service until 1915, when she was deemed worn out and sold to John Fisher, who took her to Rondout and dismantled her.

Chicken-Hearted
Dave, Fla.—Chickens are emotional creatures, Carl Rabenau said in a letter asking the Miami operators of a blimp not to fly over his farm.

"After you flew over the last time," he said, "I found five of my white leghorns dead—scared to death."

Sir James Sexton Dies in Britain

tribly scarred face, the result of being caught in a ship's derrick many years before, he looked anything but the conventional palace visitor in tall hat and morning dress.

The dignity of knighthood weighed lightly on this veteran of the British labor movement who was born in the slums of Newcastle in 1856, tramped to London as a lad, ran away to sea, served 10 years on windjammers after having been dragged in San Francisco and "shanghaied" to Singapore, and later returned to England as a fiery labor agitator.

The lord Chamberlain's department, the editors of dress at palace functions, was much disturbed, but King George, revealing one of the reasons why he was a revered ruler, took Jimmie as he came and sent him away with a knighthood to round out one of the most picturesque and picaresque careers of any member of parliament.

"Cut out the 'Sir', I am still 'Jimmie Sexton,' who worked on the docks and was glad to draw 15 shillings a week," said the new knighthood.

But he was proud of the distinction as being recognition not only from the labor view, but for general public utility, of the service he had rendered through many years particularly in the port of Liverpool "in lifting the bottom dog out of the slough of despond."

Son of emigrants who fled from Ireland's great famine, Sir James was born in poverty and to adventure. Few knights of the British realm came from such humble surroundings or lived so closely to reality.

At eight he worked "half-time" in glass works for two shillings and six pence a week, a trade more than a dime a day. When 16 he left home in search of work to help his widowed mother who had seven children. He went to sea and found plenty of adventure if little wealth.

Returning to Liverpool, he became a dockworker and helped to found the dockers' trade union of which he was general secretary for more than 40 years. In that capacity he waged many a doctory fight for better conditions and he was a prominent figure along with Havelock Wilson and Tom Mann in the seamen's and dockers' big strike in 1911, which culminated in "Bloody Sunday."

In 1918 he was elected to parliament from St. Helens, a Liverpool suburb where he passed his childhood and got what schooling he possessed. He lost his seat October 27, 1931, when the labor party was shattered in the record breaking election that endorsed Ramsay MacDonald's "national cabinet," made up of members of three major parties.

He was president of the Trades Union Congress, the British equivalent of the American Federation of Labor, in 1905, and a member of its general council after 1922. In leisure moments Sexton tried his hand at play writing and as "Tatters, M. P.," he amused parliamentary and other friends with occasional lyrical outbursts in a strain of genial satire. Some of his plays achieved regular theatrical production. He was a widower for many years without children.

As a parliamentarian he cut no figure, because he was always whirled by emotion and boiling indignation. But he was without malice in his vehement wrangle against social wrongs and inequalities of fate.

"If any of the dockers think that by accepting a title I became 'respectable,' I would tell them that I accepted the honor because it was a tribute to them," he said.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—What appears to be the most acceptable gag of the week comes from Chicago by way of our genial radio expert, Mr. Charles Butterfield, who tarried at our desk this morning just long enough to tell all about Mr. Olan Soule, star of "Bachelor Children."

Using the European pronunciation "shee," Mr. Soule ducked into a department store and inquired: "Where can I get a pair of ski pants?"

"Lingerie, third floor," was the information given the reply.

MY FAVORITE cab driver is one

Will O'Geer. He admits that his restless nature led him to New York.

"I was with my aunt in California working on a fruit ranch, but I was so nervous that one day my aunt said:

"Will, you seem sad. You haven't been happy since we left Dublin, four years ago. Why don't you go to New York and look for a job. There's lots of places in the big city."

"So, by golly, I came to New York, because she was right. I'm the restless type. I never could be satisfied in one place. Me, I ain't got patience."

"How long you been driving this hack, Will?"

Without cracking a smile he looked me in the eye and said, "Thirty-five years."

Later it occurred to me that I was very lucky to meet Will, because a guy as restless and impatient as he is likely to blow without a moment's notice.

YOUNG Douglas Leigh, the sign king, has increased the cast of his Broadway show by 1,000 bulbs.

The "show," which plays to an estimated audience of 1,000,000 people every night, is the electric sign near Times Square, which gives continuous performance, each of which lasts five minutes.

Leigh suggests that his shows are far easier to direct than those containing flesh and blood actors. A photo-electric cell, he points out, doesn't get temperamental like a human being.

WHICH leaves just time enough to relay the story that makes Lucille Manners laugh more than any other. It's about the intellectual shortcomings of the dowager who cried to her guests one night: "I just love English literature. And my favorite poets are Shakespeare and The Bard."

"Daring," said her husband gently, biting his lip, "the two are synonymous."

"Yes, I know," she prattled on, "but don't you think Shakespeare is by far the more synonymous of the two?"

What Counts!

It isn't the book that is written, it isn't the picture that's drawn, it isn't the field that is planted, an it isn't the log that is sawn—

It isn't the rock that is chiseled, it isn't the tower that is raised, it isn't the work of imposing men that should be especially praised.

It isn't the use one makes of the tools at hand and if they be many or few,

And if a job gets the best that one has, when less than the best would do.

For some have advantage of training, and some even start with a name.

While others must plod along on the sod, forever unfavored by fame.

And so, at the last great audit, when the records of life are scanned,

It won't be the size of the job that counts, but the job with the tools at hand.—James G. Moran

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—From a writer

named Twist, a new one on writing: "If you want to write—

read..."

John Twist was a reader in a movie story department.

The readers of Hollywood are the forgotten men of the studios.

Day after day, eight hours a day,

they sit in offices or cubbyholes and read. They read everything;

among them they cover practically every piece of fiction that sees print. They plough through novels, short stories, plays, even non-fiction that has screen possibilities.

And then this is important because it's the rest of John Twist's success story—they write about what they read. They write synopses of each story, pointing out screen ability or lack of it. From these synopses, movie producers select most of the stories they'll be seeing on the screen.

And yet, such being the way of Hollywood, a reader who wants to be a screen writer has even less chance than an outsider.

SO JOHN TWIST'S formula, while it worked for him, isn't to be taken generally. Only two or three other screen writers, besides Twist, came from reading departments.

Off-hand I can name only Dalton

Trumbo and Marian Dix—and there are scores of readers in Hollywood.

John Twist was a forgotten man, like the rest, for nearly eight years.

He must have been an exceptional reader, at that. Back in a day when the screen was loaded with gang bullets, he suggested that "Little Women" might make a good movie. It did, to put it mildly.

AND he kept on trying to make his formal synopses sound like

"treatments," working in a situation here or there that wasn't in the original material. Sometimes he caught hell for it—but one day

Cliff Reid, a producer who'll gamble on talent, sent for him.

He had just seen one of John's

"synopses." Cliff saw the green grass on his own side of the fence.

He put John Twist to writing.

Twist's best assignment to date is on Reid's "The Great Man Votes."

This is an old magazine story

(1926) that Reid stumbled on three years ago—his pet discovery.

And so it worked out for John

Twist. "If you want to write—

read..."

Christmas Seal Sale to Extend

Honoring the postmaster on the commemorative corner seal, Elmer Holboell, who devised the first Christmas Seal in Denmark in 1904, the general post office department, under a special ruling this year for the first time permits the use of Christmas Seals on the front of letters until January 15. Until that date the public is urged to continue the use of the seals for health greetings in 1934.

As a business barometer the seal sale over the state indicates improvement over 1932. Midway results show that one-half of the goal has been reached. Nearly all of the 60 county and city tuberculosis associations are ahead or near the amount of last year's sale. This means that the combined efforts of these groups will continue unabated in the fight for the eradication of tuberculosis, control of syphilis and the improvement of general health.

Appreciation of the support by the public of the seal sale and particularly the cooperation of the press over three decades of the fight against tuberculosis has been expressed by the executives of the United States Tuberculosis Association as making every effort to have the final report of names received complete favorably with the other associations, especially those along the Hudson valley.

State Horticultural Show January 10

Nationally prominent figures will appear on the program of the annual meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society in Rochester January 10 to 14. Chief among these will be Dr. J. A. Manville of the University of Oregon Medical School at Portland, who has gained wide fame in medical circles for his studies of nutritional values of apples.

"We believe that not only fruit growers, but medical men and nutritional and dietary specialists will want to hear Doctor Manville," says George A. Morse of Williamstown. "He is coming especially to address our society. When we began negotiations to obtain him last fall it appeared doubtful that we could expect him. Doctor Manville is a very busy man directing a nutritional clinic at a large medical school. He agreed to come here only because he thought it important to present some of his latest studies to an eastern audience."

Dr. T. E. Gardner, director of the Michigan Experiment Station at East Lansing, Dr. J. R. Macdonald, principal horticulturist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, and J. R. Van Huizen of the Dominion Experiment Station, Vineland, Canada, are among speakers listed.

"We have spent months in designing a program that will include men who have something worth while to tell our New York fruit growers," said Dr. Morse in addition, continuing last year's policy, there will be at least a score of growers on the program to tell us results of certain activities or observations during the year."

Friday Bouts Expected to Draw Crowd to Auditorium

This week's boxing show at the municipal auditorium, the first in three weeks, is expected to draw a capacity crowd.

The reasons for counting on an over-flow house are those two top bouts Jimmy Dennis of Birmingham vs. Joe Muraccio of North Adams, Mass., and Carmine Fatta, Newburgh, vs. Harvey Lacelle of Binghamton.

These matches bring together four of the outstanding amateurs in the country. Dennis recently defeated the Bradley Lewis, international middleweight champion at the auditorium, and Muraccio is the title holder in New England.

That Carmine Fatta-Harvey Lacelle scrap should be one of the most spectacular bouts ever seen at the auditorium, Fatta has been a consistent winner here. Lacelle, the Canadian Olympic champion in the 126 pound class, impressed the customers by his win over several engagements.

Three weeks ago, Muraccio made a hit with local fans when he put up that better battle with Vince Sempervino some months ago, after making a flying trip in from the east to substitute. The fans wanted to see him in a return bout, but Joe could not make the trip to keep several engagements.

That Carmine Fatta-Harvey Lacelle scrap should be one of the most spectacular bouts ever seen at the auditorium, Fatta has been a consistent winner here. Lacelle, the Canadian Olympic champion in the 126 pound class, impressed the customers by his win over several engagements.

Armstrong and Louis Rank All

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Joe Louis, boss of all the heavyweights, and hammering Henry Armstrong the little man with the legs of a child and the body of a middleweight, dominate the rankings of boxers for the year 1934.

Firestones Coming January 5th—White Eagles Play Tonight

That special exhibition game, Mary's team at their Delaware Avenue court. The home team is in the midst of a winning streak. A crowd is expected.

For their 21 home games last season the Phas ran up a foul average of 745. They made 234 of 314 tries. Joe DiMaggio is not too solid with the Yankee office and can't afford to be too snooty about signing his contract.

Johnny Getchell, who made that football boner, is cashing in. He got the Sugar Bowl game and is swamped with offers to officiate in basketball. One Midwest paper ran a streamer on him "Wrong Down Getchell to referee here." Sixty Ecobar, bantam champ, drew only 1,000 against Al Manstini in Washington, D. C. The gate was less than $1,000. Max Roesch, Dallas heavyweight, is the white hope of the south, according to press notices. Wonder how he'd go against Lou Nova!

The New York Jewels upset the Colonials last night at the municipal auditorium, 36-31, getting even for the setback the tossers of Barney Sedran administered at Brooklyn, Sunday, 37-35.

A capacity house looked on as the home club went down to defeat in the raging battle that featured by close checking right up until the last quarter when Honey Russell's chargers zoomed into the lead and ended up on the long end of the count.

Thirteen points from the baby stripe, out of 17 chances given them by Referee Chuck Solodare, saved the Colonials from a more severe overthrow. The Kingstons committed 18 fouls. Several of the penalties were technical, necessary to restore order, and to Solodare to keep his hold on the proceedings.

High scorers for the winner were Art Pelington and Micky Kupperberg with 11 points. Na Frankel, Sam Kaplan, Charlie Johnson and Pete Berenson the prodigal son returning to the Colonials from the Original Celtic lineup, did the main tallying for the locals.

Last night's defeat was hard to take by the Colonials, who battled fiercely in Brooklyn to edge out the Jewels because it broke their string of wins at the auditorium. They hope to break into the column next Monday against the Troy Haymakers. The New York attraction at the Broadway courtman.

After they meet the Haymakers the Colonials will show in that special exhibition for Thursday night, January 1. This match, of course, is announced for this week through a mishap in dates will bring to Kingston some of the leading all-college stars of the west.

Last night the Jewels took a lead in the first period, but the jump in the fans' throats broke when Berenson caged the field that made it 8-8 as the whistle ended the frame. The second period was another close one during which the Jewels outpointed the Sedranites 14-12, the visitors holding the edge 22-20 at the end.

That third frame was a hectic tussle with the Jewels stepping out in front for the last seven minutes of play as Art Pelington, giant center and Kupperberg popped in shots to build up their big scores. Kingston tried long shots, as the Jewels defense tightened up under the baskets, but the boys were off form on the range ones.

So torrid was the rivalry that Frankel and Spindell displayed a bit ofisticuffs, but were separated by teammates. Big Bernie Berenson lost his temper several times too and threatened to battle.

Skaters, Skiers At Lake Placid

Lake Placid, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—Collegiate skaters and skiers held the center of attraction today for hundreds here for Christmas week festivities.

With eight college hockey teams already playing in a round robin tourney for the Samuel R. Packer trophy, the skiers were scheduled to take to the surrounding Adirondack mountainsides Friday in a four-day competition.

And, to top it off, there's a hockey series between Harvard and Princeton beginning Thursday and the Adirondack A. A. U. championship four-man bobsled events or the Olympic slide New Year's Day.

Leaders after the opening day's play here are Cornell, William and Hamilton.

The M. Van Hoevenberg Olympic bobsled was opened Christmas Day and yesterday a group of novice pilots staged a series of races.

Clive Phillips of Keene Valley, N. Y., won the one half mile two-man race.

Japan Is Thanked

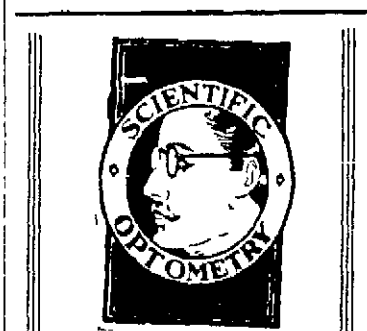

Peiping, Dec. 27 (AP)—Dispatches from official Japanese sources in Harbin, Manchoukuo, reported a conference of Jewish residents yesterday expressed gratitude to Japan and Manchoukuo for opening the latter to a haven for world Jewry. (Although no official announcement of such action by Manchoukuo has been made, it has been reported unofficially that the Japanese-dominated state would admit Jewish refugees.) The Harbin reports said Dr. Abram Kaufmann presided at the meeting which declared a "resolve to become loyal Manchoukuo subjects enjoying racial equality according to the state law and to do our part to cooperate with Japan's and Manchoukuo's efforts to establish a new order in the Far East."

Married Twice

Chicago, Dec. 27 (AP)—In two separate ceremonies—Chinese and American—Gerald Meye, unofficial mayor of Chicago's Chinatown, and Miss Alice Gee Koo, American-born Chinese from Brooklyn, were married yesterday. With only the families of the bride and Meye present, a completely Oriental ritual was held. As tradition demands, this ceremony was secret. The second wedding was a public Christian service in a restaurant by the Rev. Philip Lee, youthful Congregational pastor.

Woman Invents Glass Varnish

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—A varnish which makes glass invisible and transparent as air was announced today by Dr. Katharine B. Blodgett, noted woman scientist. Colorless and thinner than a wave length of light, the film offers industry a new wonderland in the use of glass. It can be used on all kinds of glass, and it does two things never before possible. First, it abolishes all reflection of light, from any angle and from any degree of glare. Second, it enables glass to transmit more than 99 per cent of the light. The best untreated glass passes only 92 per cent. The last eight per cent is equivalent to a dim haze, which has been unnoticed because human eyes have not previously had a chance to make comparisons.

Buffalo Man Named

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Secretary Ickes announced today appointment of Representative Alfred Belter, Buffalo, N. Y., as special assistant to Howard A. Gray, assistant PWA administrator. Belter, a Democrat, was defeated for reelection in the November elections. He was a leader of the public works bloc in Congress and introduced several public works bills.

Turkey Is Cause Of Negro Fight

Andrew "Cherry Red" Woodridge, 41, of Goldrick's Landing, bought a turkey for the Christmas holiday season and took it to the home of George "Bass Horn" Lewis, 40, to be cooked. That part of the arrangement was fine until William "Dub" Boxley, 34, came along and insisted in carving the bird. There was an argument and it was charged later by Boxley, who swore out a warrant charging assault, third degree, that he was handled roughly by Woodridge and Lewis. The two men were arrested by Deputies Frederick Brown and Pierce and taken before Justice Watzka where the judge held Woodridge and Lewis had been a bit too rough and imposed $15 fines or 15 days in jail. Lewis paid but Woodridge was brought to jail to spend 15 days. The alleged assault took place on Christmas Day. Woodridge and Lewis work on the Rose yard and Boxley on the Goldrick yard. On the jail record Woodridge told the officers that he had eight convictions against him.

Men Get Jump on Wives in Economy

Act Sooner as Conditions Turn Downward.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Husbands start economizing much sooner than their wives when economic conditions turn downward; a sliding off in sales in men's wear departments was the first indication many department stores had that it was not well in the summer of 1937.

Men are still buying less for themselves than this time a year ago, though the spread is narrower than in the first six months; several other lines of "prosperity goods" have also climbed closer to 1937 sales volumes, according to a third-quarter study of luxury and semi-luxury sales at 235 department stores, made by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Pianos, whose phenomenal four-year come-back was checked during the winter of 1937-38, again show an actual increase in sales for the third quarter of 1938, running 3.4 per cent above the corresponding period of 1937, in the department stores studied.

Fashion can successfully resist a depression, the survey states, pointing to the fact that department store sales of jewelry registered only slight declines during the 1937-38 recession, in the third quarter were within 3.3 per cent of the corresponding period of 1937, and are now running practically even with last year. Style dictates which made jewelry an essential accessory of women's dress have been mainly responsible for the maintenance of public buying of such items, the study states.

Home furniture and electric household appliances both improved their showing in the third quarter.

Furs, sporting goods and luggage maintained or increased the margins by which they are trailing their 1937 sales volumes, the report shows.

Inventories of eight out of the nine lines covered by the study have been reduced, and smaller stocks remain on hand than last autumn. The sole exception is pianos; increased public interest and new designs have resulted in a modest increase in stores' piano stocks, the study shows.

U. S. Opens Farm to Treat 1,000 Narcotics

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.—A new $4,000,000 United States public health service hospital devoted to non-dangerous narcotic addicts has been placed in operation with 250 patients. The narcotic farm, a few miles southwest of Fort Worth, has no walls, and the directors intend to give fullest freedom to patients.

"It is the government's policy to treat addicts as patients instead of criminals," said Dr. W. S. Ossefort, who is in charge. "Our problem is making a healthy personality out of a warped and unstable personality."

Seventy-five per cent of the patients will be assigned by federal courts. They will be narcotic addicts who are believed to be harmless. The other 25 per cent will be voluntary patients.

The farm will accommodate 1,000 patients. Work is planned on $1,300,000 worth of new buildings. The farm will have its own workshops and facilities for agriculture. Patients will be kept in dormitories, and the only restraint will be a wire fence about the premises. Doctors said they anticipated no trouble from patients leaving the farm without permission.

Artificial Pump Devised

To Save Heart Victims

PHILADELPHIA.—An artificial heart and lungs which may save the lives of victims of pulmonary embolism has been designed by Dr. John H. Gibbon, of the University of Pennsylvania's Harrison department of surgical research.

Pulmonary embolism, which accounts for 8 per cent of deaths following surgical operations, comes when a blood clot clogs the artery from the heart to the lungs, and usually results in death within 15 minutes.

Doctor Gibbon's chromium-plated steel heart and lungs is designed to perform the functions of the living heart and lungs while a surgeon removes the clot.

No attempt has been made yet to use the apparatus on human beings, but Doctor Gibbon told the Medical Society of Pennsylvania at its recent Scranton convention that the blood of 13 cats had been diverted through the artificial organs for periods up to 18 minutes without loss of life.

The apparatus can be attached to a cat's blood stream in 10 minutes, five minutes short of the time in which pulmonary embolism usually is fatal.

Housing Program Heads Proposals

the committee's plan, to cities having municipal housing authorities on a basis of $9 of state funds for $11 of municipal subsidy.

The housing article of the new state constitution permits loans of $300,000,000 to cities and municipal and state agencies within the next few years. The report declared, however, that loans beyond $200,000,000 "should await further experience with the credits and subsidies recommended for immediate authorization."

The $1,000,000 a year subsidy, the limit authorized by the constitution, would be used to keep rental costs of housing projects to a low level.

"The primary interest and responsibility of each municipality for its own slum clearance should be recognized," the committee states. "The state, however, is interested in promoting sound slum clearance and seeing that the state's contribution is wisely used."

Harold Riegelman, chairman of the committee, said the legislative recommendations were forwarded to state party leaders with the approval of Kenneth F. Simpson, national committeeman and county chairman.

Washington Avenue Woman Sustains Broken Leg in Fall

Mrs. John T. Murphy of 454 Washington avenue is in the technique Hospital with a broken leg sustained when she slipped and fell in a driveway near her home Sunday night. The leg is broken above the ankle.

Officers Howard and Entrott in one of the radio cars responded to a call for aid and when they arrived found that the leg was bleeding freely. They applied a tourniquet and later Dr. George W. Bassow of Woodstock, who was passing, applied an improvised splint, and the woman was removed to the hospital in the Conner ambulance, which had been called.

Blames Apathy

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt blamed general apathy of women for the numerical decrease in women legislators and congresswomen. There are plenty of capable women to hold legislative positions, Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference. "The trouble is, she said, women as a whole do not back feminine candidates. The League of Women Voters had reported that the number of women legislators dropped from 149 in 38 states 10 years ago to 130 who would serve in 28 states in 1939. The number of congresswomen during the 10-year period fell from 9 to 5.

Two County Men Die in Accidents which had made quite a reputation and once appeared before President and Mrs. Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

At first it was not believed Mr. Reynolds' injuries were of a serious nature but his condition grew worse Sunday evening and he died about 6:25 o'clock Monday morning.

Besides his wife, Beatrice Douglas Reynolds, Mr. Reynolds is survived by his father, Charles Reynolds of Shady; three brothers, George of Woodstock, Newton of Bearsville and Gerald Reynolds of Shady; and four sisters, Mrs. Harold Fox of New York city, Mrs. Nathan MacDaniel and Mrs. Richard Cauley of Shady, and Mrs. George Millard of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Reynolds had been employed in the automobile business in this locality for several years being employed by the Chevrolet and Ford dealers in Kingston at one time.

Funeral services will be held from the late home at Port Ewen at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the Rev. William Peckham, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Woodstock Cemetery.

Clarke Accident Monday

The second death over the holidays came at 10:50 o'clock Monday evening when George Clarke of Lake Katrine died at the Kingston Hospital from injuries suffered at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon when it is charged he walked into the side of a south-bound car of Daniel J. McCafferty of 53 Lakestone avenue, Pompton Lakes, N. J. The driver of the car was not held following an investigation.

Clarke suffered a fractured skull. An autopsy was ordered.

State Trooper Arthur Reilly made an investigation and after interviewing eye witnesses to the accident allowed the driver of the car to proceed. It was reported that Clarke had walked northward on the three lane pavement along the easterly side of the road near the old Red House site. He suddenly darted across the road in the path of the car, according to witnesses. Clarke's head struck the left door of the car near the door handle and he was thrown to the pavement.

Unsuccessful in an attempt to avoid the man, McCafferty swung his car to the right and his car skidded on the pavement and landed in the ditch. McCafferty and his wife and child escaped injury.

Unable to get his car back on the road because of the snow and ice it was not until State Troopers Reilly and Senecal arrived that Clarke was taken to the hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Frederick Snyder. The condition of the injured man was critical from the time he entered the hospital.

Coroner Michael Galletta of Glasco was summoned but withheld his verdict pending completion of the autopsy and investigation.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne was summoned to the scene and photographs were made of the vicinity.

Nouvelle to Prison

Anthony Nouvelle, convicted on abandonment of his family, was taken to Clinton State Prison at Dannemora today by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Brown. He began a one to two year sentence in the prison. Nouvelle was sentenced by Justice Foster last week following a plea of guilty.
